

First Grade
Student Profile
Social Studies

By June, in Social Studies, first grade students should be able to describe patterns and understand the chronological order of events of the recent past. Notable people, places, holidays and patriotic symbols should be recognized. They should be able to discuss family and cultural traditions in the United States in the past. They should be able to understand that effective groups have good leaders and team members.

Geographic tools such as maps and globes or GoogleEarth should be utilized to represent places. Students should understand that people in different groups and communities interact with each other and the environment and that people work at different types of jobs and in different types of organizations in order to produce goods and services and receive an income. Within that study, they should be able to identify how to meet short term financial goals.
