

Kindergarten
Student Profile
Reading, Writing, and Communicating

Proficient kindergarten students make meaningful connections between themselves and the larger world through reading, writing, and investigating. They independently apply foundational skills in order to read emergent level text with purpose and understanding. They use a combination of drawing and writing to compose pieces that state opinions, inform readers, and tell stories. They communicate effectively in collaborative conversations by asking and answering relevant questions.

